Athlete Development Committee

The Athlete Development Committee is a committee of Speed Skate Nova Scotia. This year it consists of:

Chair, Meril Rasmussen (board president)

Carolyn Benvie (board member)

Rachel Murphy (community member, past CWG athlete)

Josh Bateman (community member, past CWG athlete)

Todd Landon (Short Track CWG coach) and CJ Jarok (Halifax Regional Club coach) participated in the early part of the discussion and then stepped away out of a concern of conflict of interest before the selection process began.

Similarly, Josh Bateman, who trains alongside the Men's Short Track team, recused himself from the discussion for that section.

Appeals Panel

Blaise Landry, chair and SNS Organizational Efficiency head is affiliated with Sport Nova Scotia in some capacity apart from any connection to the speed skating community.

Danielle Daigle, lawyer, past CWG athlete, and vice-president of the board of Speed Skating Canada is a member of SSNS but not also a member of the SSNS Board.

Lindsay Arsenault is a member of the SSNS Board who was not involved in the selection process.
